

Transportation

When moving goods or people, there's always the chance that something can go wrong. This can result in disputes over liability, and ultimately, claims for economic losses due to physical damage, lost profits and extra expenses.

As the world's premier forensic accounting firm, MDD can help clients effectively deal with issues pertaining to transportation losses. Our experienced professionals can also be retained as consulting or testifying experts in the event such services are required.

MDD can assist the transportation industry with the following:

- Economic damages for personal injury
- Commercial damage or loss of use
- Valuation of damaged inventory
- Damages in contractual disputes
- Fraud
- Forensic investigations
- Downtime claims

For assistance resolving your transportation related issues, hire MDD.
