

Product Liability & Product Recall

When a product liability or product recall situation occurs, businesses frequently find themselves suffering a financial loss or being held responsible for the financial loss suffered by another business. Regardless of whether or not the loss is due to a product defect, contamination, or tampering, MDD can help accurately quantify the resulting loss.

We produce comprehensive checklists and documentation requests to ensure we receive the information needed to efficiently and accurately quantify the loss. When we're involved early in the process we can expedite the process and assist in managing expectations for all parties.

Our experts have tackled numerous high-profile and complex product liability & recalls worldwide for the food and beverage, pharmaceutical, medical, chemical, and distribution industries.

We offer a wide range of product liability & product recall services that include:

- Establishment of tracking protocols
- Assessment of relevant historical documentation
- Tracing of claimed costs to recalled products and segregating those potentially not recall-related
- Assistance with on-site inventory counts, testing procedures and appropriate cost reporting
- Monitoring of the recall and rehabilitation process
- Management of information flow to track expenditures and quantify damages
- Categorization, control, and sorting of costs
- Evaluation of market share loss
- Quantification of lost profits and extra expenses
- Expert and consulting witness testimony

For assistance with product liability or product recalls, hire MDD.